Dear Simon:

Thank you !!! I want to express my appreciation for making the presentation on “The Role of Digital Broadcasting in the New Media” for the Chinese publishers’ management seminar. You were absolutely terrific addressing the many different aspects of video and news as part of online and digital publishing as one of the new technology sessions.

It is a real challenge to present the lecture to a group with such a broad range of interests and experiences. You made a very thoughtful presentation with real practical applications on developing a working knowledge of how publishers can apply your experiences to their own businesses. Your review of these topics received a high score in their evaluations. It is your participation and excellent presentations that make this new international program such a success for the Levin Institute. Thank you.

An honorarium as a small token of appreciation is working its way through SUNY’s administration. In other words, the check will be in the mail.

With best wishes for the Spring season, I remain

Gratefully yours,

Robert E. Baensch
